

2017 Fall Season Free Agent Information

The Southern Colorado Basketball League (SoCo), as of now, does not place individual kids on teams or put teams together. However, if you are a “free agent” and are looking to join a team, we do have a few options:

- 1) You can put your own team together through your school, friends, or a team that you already play on.
- 2) You can post information about the fact that your son/daughter is looking to join a SoCo team on the SoCo Bulletin Board. Here is step by step instructions regarding the SoCo bulletin board:
 - a. Go to SoCo’s home page can click on the bulletin board:
<http://socoball.websitetoolbox.com/>
 - b. Enter the password to access the site: socohoops
 - c. Create your own profile (user name and password) by clicking “register” on the top right hand corner of the page. Please note that the password you create is completely separate from the socohoops password needed to access the site.
 - d. Create a new post by clicking “new topic” on the right hand side of the page
 - e. Enter general information about your son or daughter
- 3) Post information about your son/daughter on the SoCo facebook page. To do this, you must become a “fan” of the SoCo page: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/SoCo-Basketball/187773904566587>. You then can post information that you have a player looking for a team.
- 4) Always keep in mind that it is best to find players of the same grade level, same school, that are from the same geographical area. This is important for many reasons. We suggest having your son/daughter talk to friends at school, church, or from the same area with hopes of generating interest to form a team.
- 5) Athletes may want to ask their school coaches or PE teachers for assistance in finding a team. These people may already know of a team or may have heard that a team is forming.
- 6) Start a team yourself! Dozens and dozens of teams have started with ONE motivated parent or coach, a little bit of drive, some stick-to-itiveness, and networking. Some of our greatest success stories have had these roots.
